

No. 248
Date: 22.05.2012

Product finish update

In order to conform to the common industry standards, we will eliminate the finish description previously known as ABP.

Our AB finish (see picture) will be according to the illustration on the right below, which is a closer color match to the more popular hardware finishes available in the market today, along with our own security rings.

This darker finish will also allow greater color consistency between production batches.

Please note that the AB finish will be categorized as a special finish order (it is relevant to all products with this finish, not just rim & mortise).

